Gone to Her Reward.

Last Sunday, at 11 o'clock, Mrs. Sarah E. Barger, after a long illness, crossed over to the other side, the end coming at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ores Barger, who resides two and a half miles from Columbia.

The deceased would have been 72 years old had she lived until the 3rd of next May. She was the oldest child of Anderson and Louvenia Murrell and was born and reared near Clear Spring, this county. She was a woman of strong mind and a well read historian, and interesting person with whom to converse. She was well versed in local biographies, and was often called upon by the younger set for histories of their descendants. She made it a business to keep up with trees, so to speak.

When quite a young woman she was married to Samuel H. Stevenson, and they commenced their married life in Russell county, near Esto. To this union three children were born, M. O. Stevenson, Mrs. Ores Barger, who live near Columbia, and Rev. R. E. Stevenson, who is a citizen of New Mexico. She also leaves a stepson, Mr. G. M. Stevenson, of this place, who never knew any other mother. The first wife of Mr. C. R. Royse was also a step-daughter.

Ten years after, the death of her first husband she was married to Col. D. B. Barger, a prominent citizen of Russell county, who died eight years later.

The deceased was a devoted member of the Methodist Church, and like the true woman that she was, she filled every station in life, that she occupied, with fidelity.

The funeral services were held at Mt. Pleasant church, Russell county, conducted by Revs. Goodman and Beck Monday, and the interment was near the church. Notwithstanding the day was disagreeably cold, quite a number of relatives and friends were present.

The surviving children have the consolation of knowing that their mother was ready for the call, that she is now free from pain, and will be at the gate to welcome them when they come to the celestial home.

Rules for Fighting Grip.

To escape the grippe avoid crowds; keep away from persons who cough and sneeze. Don't ride when you have only a short distance to go. Walk. Get plenty of sleep, with window open. Walk a mile every day in the open air. If you get it keep by yourself as much as possible. If you feel ill go to bed and stay there. Send for a reliable doctor. Cover your face when sneezing and don't expectorate in public. See that your eating and drinking utensils are washed separately from those of the rest of the family. Don't take the patent grip remedies.

Mr. Thos. J. Rosson, who lived at Rugby, this county, died one day last week. His death was not unexpected, as he had been confined to his bed for months, a victim of pulmonary trouble. He was between fifty-five and sixty years old, and was a man who had many friends in the neighborhood. He leaves a wife, one son and one daughter.

The American Magazine grows more popular every day. The February number is one of the best the company ever issued and it should be a welcome visitor to country libraries. The information it contains is valuable and of great interest. If you are not a subscriber for the splendid magazine you should send for it. Address 381 Fourth Ave, New York City.

One wing of the dam at Smith's mill, on Russell's creek, broke several weeks ago, and it has been gradually washing away since, until now but little of it is left. The mill is being operated altogether by an oil engine.

Mr. W. T. Price lost a Jersey heifer, eighteen months old, last Wednesday. She was well worth fifty dollars. She was sick about one week, the skill of a veterinary bringing no relief.

Mrs. R. E. Tandy sold W. E. Todd five Bourbon Red turkeys which brought her $14.50.

Born, to the wife of J. D. Holladay, January 13th, a son.

Advocate of Good Roads.

To citizens of Adair and Russell:—

I have been thinking of all occupations of life, and the one most needed in our county is a good paper published, say the Adair County News, with a man like Mr. Harris, who takes so much of his time to advocate good roads for our counties, and to think how little credit our people will give him. Hold up your editors hands, and help him to do all the good he can for our poor counties that need such help. Don't kick on your editor, but help him, and he will help us. We know if we don't have a good live paper to assist us in many things, we are in a bad shape in this poor country. By the help of The News we can make this country one of the best in the world. We should go to work and improve the fertility of our land so we can make our corn crop without any fertilizer, sow clover an turn under all the clover we can, and in a short time we can make more corn without fertilizer than we are making with it, and save hundreds of thousands of dollars for the poor people of our country. If a fertilizer agent were to ask me to buy from him for my own crop, I would tell him no. If a boy has been trained to put in more corn than he can cultivate right, it will be hard to get him out of that idea, but as soon as you can do so, it will be better for you and our country, for it is better to put in less corn and more clover and grass. Some old fathers will say to their boys, that when they went to school they had to split timber for seats, and they seem to want their boys and girls to go through this world just like they did. Now let us parents get out of this old foggy idea and let our children have the best we can afford, for life is too short to cut them out of the great opportunities that we can give them. Just think of the boys pleading with their fathers to bond our county for the purpose of building better roads, and their fathers saying no. Then your boys will leave father and mother with tears in their eyes, for the West, where they can have some opportunity. Now let's build good roads, good school houses, and give our boys inducement to stay at home, where they can be so much pleasure. What is life? It is what we make it. I have heard fathers say, my boys are in the West and if we don't get the Dixie road I guess I will go too. I hope as soon as their fathers go to the West, that the boys will come back to their good country where they were raised. Just think of Adair county, one of the best counties in the State, not voting for good roads! Those who voted against the bond issue, will see the day when they can look back and see how little they know. The bonds are a very little thing for you to pay. You would never know the difference when you paid it. We have been paying tax and nothing to show for it. Now let's do something that we and the rising generation will be benefited, and our poor farmers can make a living for their children.

J. H. Phelps.

They Continue to Come.

Gill & Waggener's special sale will continue through Tuesday, the 25th inst. People swarm the store daily, buying goods at great reduced prices. The stock is large, plenty for every body. Come daily until the 25th. Clerks in every department. If you want to save money, now is the time. Gill & Waggener.

Be sure and see the basket ball games Friday night, Shepherdsville vs. Lindsey-Wilson. Saturday night, Shepherdsville vs. Columbia High School. It is understood that Shepherdsville is much stronger this year than formerly.

The number of new cases docketed for this term of court are as follows: Nine ordinary; fourteen equity; thirty-five misdemeanors; six felony. There are a large number of cases continued from last term of court.

Last Wednesday was a warm, sultry day, but during the night a cold wave struck this section, and Thursday morning a light snow was falling and it was disagreeably cold.

Read the bargains offered by Russell & Co., published in to-day's News.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Dr. J. N. Page and Mr. A. O. Taylor who have been partners in the drug business, in this place, for the last three years, have dissolved, Mr. Taylor going out. From now on the business will be conducted solely by Dr. Page, who is known throughout this section as an experienced druggist, one who has made the business a life time study. Mr. Taylor is also a registered pharmacist, a very reliable gentleman, and will seek a location elsewhere. This partnership was dissolved by mutual consent, the very best of feelings prevailing.

Mr. Taylor will remain with Dr. Page for several weeks.

Defeated 9 to 8 by the University of Louisville.

On next Friday night the boys' and girls' teams, of Shepherdsville, will play the boys' and girls' teams of the Lindsey-Wilson in a double header. The girls of Shepherdsville have been defeated by only one team in two years and that was the University of Louisville who have the champion girls' team of the State. Louisville defeated them 9 to 8. Games begin at 7:30. Admission 25 cents.

To Teachers.

The common school law absolutely forbids any teacher to teach on Saturday. Saturday teaching will not be counted. Teaching a holiday counts no more than any other day and lost time can not be made up by teaching holidays. Arbor Day can be taken as a holiday provided the teacher and pupils meet and render some sort of a tree day program, or at least plant a few trees. Otherwise it must be taught as any other day. Outside of holidays, and school rally days attended by the teacher and school, the full time must be taught in order to receive full pay.

Very Respectfully,
Tobias Huffaker, Supt.

A Fine Jersey Heifer for Sale.

If you want to raise a good Jersey cow buy this heifer. She is a fine prospect, about 16 months old. 11-2t. C. S. Harris.

The first day of circuit court brought a great many people to Columbia and all classes of business was good throughout the day. There were quite a number of mules on the market and a few sales made at fair prices.

Boarders.

We will open a Boarding House Monday, Jan. 16. Your patronage solicited. Location, Dr. Taylor property on Campbellsville pike near public square. Mrs. Geo. E. Wilson. 11-2t

Rev. R. V. Chapin will return home next Friday, the 21st, and will fill his regular appointments at the Presbyterian church on Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock and at 6:30 at night. A cordial invitation is given to all to attend these services.

Very truly,
R. V. Chapin.

Bring your mules to Columbia next Saturday.

At the opening of circuit court there were representatives here from Russell, Cumberland, Casey, Taylor, Metcalfe and Green counties. The Adair county courts are invariably largely attended. More people means more business.

During circuit court we ask all subscribers who are behind at this office to call and make payment. This notice also applies to parties who are owing for job-work and advertising.

Miss Mary Pierce, daughter of the late Rev. Jo Pierce, Roy, this county, was recently married to Mr. Charles Evans, of Russell Springs.

The swarm at Gill & Waggener's store is a self evident fact that advertising pays. Since the sale opening the store has been like a bee hive.

Remember the basket ball game at the High School Gym next Saturday night.

The January term of the Adair circuit court opened last Monday, a small crowd being in attendance. The docket is about up to the usual, and the full two weeks will likely be occupied in disposing of the business.

The following gentlemen make up the two Juries:

Editor News:

December the 20th, at two o'clock a. m., we said goodbye to loved ones and took the automobile for Campbellsville. It was a lovely moonlight night, but pretty cool, and in fact we thought it cold before we reached C-ville, but were soon comfortable after going in to the Beard Hotel, where a red hot stove greeted us. At six o'clock we took the train for Wilmore, Ky., reaching there at two o'clock in the afternoon. We were met by Mr. and Mrs. Wilder, of London, Ky. They took us to their father and mother's home where we remained until 9:30 next morning. In company with Mr. and Mrs. Wilder and two interesting little boys, we left for Danville, Ky., where we had a two hour wait, then boarded a fast train for Clearwater, Fla. Our next stop was at Jacksonville, Fla. We got there at 11:30 next day. This is a beautiful city. We went to the depot, which, I think the prettiest I ever saw. We rested, had lunch, then took a street car for the ostrich and alligator farm, six miles out. On arriving, we went into a little store where all kinds of curios were on display, various things made of alligator hides etc. We paid twenty-five cents each, for tickets. First we went to see the ostrich. They were in a lot twenty-five or thirty in number. The male ostrich is much larger and prettier than the female. They are a very peculiar looking bird. They are as tall as an average man, and very strong. Some boys were riding them. Their feathers had recently been taken, and they were not near so pretty as when full feathered. We were told they have twenty-six wing feathers and sixteen tail feathers, and they take them every eight months. We saw some of their eggs in an incubator, one egg averaging thirty-six hen eggs. Their weight is from three to four pounds. The ostrich is matured at four years of age, and lives to be from sixty to eighty years old.

We then went down to St. John's river, and watched the large boats run. Then back to see animals of most every kind. We saw the oldest lion in captivity, his age being unknown. He feeds on milk, eggs and fresh meats daily, and walks around and around all the time. We saw Bears, the fallow deer, the pelican, which is a very peculiar looking bird, the prettiest parrots I ever saw, and lots of other things I can't take time and space to tell about. I did not go to see the alligators, but my friends did. The animals are trained to do a great many things. They have one two hundred and fifty years of age. Not long since he got hold of a boy's arm and wounded it so badly it had to be amputated. We left feeling well repaid for our trip.

At nine o'clock we left for Clearwater. Spent another night on train, reaching here at seven fifteen in the morning. ending a nine hundred and twenty five mile run from Wilmore, Ky. Clearwater is a beautiful city on the bay. About thirty-five hundred people live here but a great many more here through the winter season.

There are lots of lovely homes here and this is certainly a land of flowers. Some of the prettiest flowers I have ever seen grow here. No street cars, but the streets are wide enough for them. Lots of automobiles, but few buggies, as it is hard on horses to pull through the sandy land.

After reaching here we were soon domiciled in a beautiful home of a Mrs. Wilder, a sister-in-law of Mr. Wilder, she being away for the winter, left home all ready for us to go to house-keeping. We are only a few yards from the Bay. We go out to the docks and watch the boats run. I counted nineteen at one time. There are lots of fish caught here. They sell at ten cents per pound, the cheapest meat we can get. We enjoy picking up shells on the shore. This has long been a desire of my heart.

We visited a packing house a few days since. This is quite an interesting place. The fruit is washed and dried by machinery. Then assorted, wrapped and packed by hand. They get four cents a case for grapefruit and five cents a case for oranges. The fastest hand told me he made on an average of five dollars per day. Said when he began he only made seventy-five cents. Then a dollar. This is hard on the wrist and hand until they get limbered up. The men who make the cases get one cent a case. One man said he could make five and six hundred cases a day and the one who closed the cases gets three quarters of a cent a case. He said he had made eight dollars a day but seven was an average.

I must tell you about the bridge across the Bay. It is out from the heart of the City, one and a half miles. It is a thousand feet long and wide enough for automobiles to pass each other. We walked out on it quite a distance, was getting late and we did not get to go all the way across. This bridge is just below the railroad bridge we came over to Clearwater.

The grapefruit, orange and tangerine orchards are certainly beautiful. I was in one of those orchards a few days since, and a lady whom I was with called my attention to a peach tree in full bloom. I can't hardly realize this is January, as it is so different to any I ever saw. It is like real summer in Kentucky. We haven't had but little fire since we came. I am sitting in my room now between two open windows, enjoying the pleasant sea breezes, and my thoughts are of you people, who perhaps are shivering with cold. This is claimed to be a very healthy place. More later if this finds a place in your valuable paper.

Mattie Sinclair.

The Habit of Taking Cold.

With many people taking cold is a habit, but fortunately one that is easily broken. Take a cold sponge bath every morning when you first get out of bed—not ice cold, but a temperature of about 90 degree F. Also sleep with your window up. Do this and you will seldom take cold. When you do take cold take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and get rid of it as quickly as possible. For sale by Paull Drug Co. Adv.

Death of S. T. Walker.

Samuel Theophilus Walker passed away at his home in Forest City on Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. He was 85 years, 11 months and 3 days old.

He was born in Columbia, Ky., on January 30, 1830, and came to Havana in 1850, making the trip on horseback. He moved to Forest City in the early sixties and worked in the general store of George Walker. Later he went into partnership with Alexander Cross and finally became sole owner of the store. He was postmaster at Forest City from 1898 to 1913, when illness compelled him to retire. He has also served as township supervisor and town clerk.

At the age of 33, on April 12, 1863 he was married to Julia Ann Fosket, this marriage having the distinction of being the first wedding solemnized in Forest City. They were the parents of ten children, five of whom died in infancy. One daughter, Mrs. Susie Walker Langston, died March 30, 1899. There are living three daughters and one son: Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas of Havana, Mrs. Patsy Walker Barnes, Miss Polly Walker and Kelso Walker of Forest City. Besides the children and his aged wife, there are five grandchildren.

Mr. Walker was a member of and a faithful worker in the Methodist church for a half century. Although his health has Trifled with Lunatic.

Father's farm lay between high hills whose stony tops seemed to shut out all intercourse with the outside world. Small wonder that Sister Flora and I felt depressed that summer afternoon, for the rest of the family had gone to a meeting of the Grange, leaving us alone in that lonely valley.

After wandering aimlessly around the farm we climbed to the loft of an old log corner where Flo, laying aside the dignity of her sixteen years, proceeded to help me make a trouser for my doll. We were deep in the complications of a Dilly Varden hat when, happening to glance down where the road entered the valley, we were electrified to see a young woman coming on the run.

As she came near we saw she was the daughter of a farmer who had lately come to the neighborhood.

"Why, Lucy, what's the matter?" we called.

"Hide me quick," she gasped. "Crazy Charley's coming with a long knife. Just in fun I asked him to marry me, and to-day when everybody had gone to the Grange, he came, and when I wouldn't go with him to Squire Hoffer's he went mad and tried to kill me. I got away from him by taking to the woods, but—oh, dear, I hear him coming now!"

"Go around behind and climb up here," I told her as distant mutterings sent chills up and down my spine. But the maniac must have seen her through the shrubbery, for he made a bee line toward our refuge.

"I seen you, you lyin' hussy," he screamed, brandishing his knife. "I'm goin' to cut your lyin' tongue out, and I'm goin' to wash my hands in the blood of every girl in this region!"

We had known him as a crack-brained fellow going from house to house seemingly happy if given a place by the cook stove, where he would sit and chant hymns until summoned to the dinner table. Being a master hand at splitting rails or hoeing corn, he was generally welcome, as he would work for a week for a cast-off vest or a pair of shoes.

Through an open chink we breathlessly watched him try his knife's edge. His hands were trembling, his usual mild eyes glittered, his hat was off, and his stringy hair fell in disorder over his sweaty, convulsive face as he began whetting the knife on a grindstone near.

"If we could only get him started on one of his hymns," I whispered. Flo nodded. I started on his favorite, "There is a Fountain Filled with Blood." I sang it through without any apparent effect on the transformed creature at the grindstone. This was followed by, "I Would Not Live Always; I Ask Not to Stay." Still the ominous whetting.

Then hope died, and I laid my head on Flo's shoulder, waiting for the worst. She drew me to her, and in a strong, triumphant voice began to sing "Rejoice and be Glad," but instead of her usual flute-like voice she imitated his tones.

Lucy sat up and stared. The whetting stopped, then he began to beat time with that long knife, and soon joined in, making the hills reverberate to his measured chant. Gradually the fury faded from his face, and when our parents came a half an hour later, smiling at the music in the air, he had forgotten Lucy's "treachery" and was ready for supper.

War Upon Pain!

Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful!

Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise, next morning, the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new." March, 1915. 25c. "Hon. Harvey Helm has introduced the following bill in the House of Representatives: Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, that the following sums of money be, and are hereby, authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and to be expended under the direction of the Secretary of War, and under the supervision of the Chief of Engineers, for the construction, completion, repair, and preservation of the public works herein after named: For the construction of Lock and Dam Numbered Twenty (to be known under the new plan of the Department of Engineers as Lock and Dam Numbered Seventeen, and hereinafter known and styled as Lock and Dam Numbered Seventeen) on the Cumberland River above Nashville, Tennessee, in Kentucky: Provided, That the Secretary of War may enter into a contract or contracts for such material and work as may be necessary to prosecute and complete said Lock Numbered Seventeen, to be paid for as appropriations may be made from time to time therefor, not to exceed $517,000, the amount estimated as the cost of said lock and Dam in the plan recommended by the Department of Engineers in the report of February fourth, nineteen hundred and fourteen."

The Republican National Convention and the Progressive National Convention will be held in Chicago at the same time. It is very evident from reading reports from various States, that an effort will be made to have the two parties unite on a Republican for the Presidency. It is further in evidence that the Progressives will urge the selection of Mr. Roosevelt and the Republicans will decline to accept him.

The health of the community is better than when we last wrote.

As 1915 has passed and forever gone and we are entering upon the duties of another, we should each and every one strive to make this the greatest and grandest year of our lives.

As the Legislature is now in session at Frankfort, and each and every member is sworn to do their full duty, we hope some laws will be repealed and many good ones written upon the statutes of our grand old State.

There are two measures we would be glad to know would become laws during this session. First a law requiring each and every county in the State to keep two thoroughbred blood hounds at the county, making their evidence the same as a person.

We are of the opinion that with this law in force, crime would decrease and many that are now criminals fleeing from justice would be landed where they rightly belong.

Rev. J. A. Wallace, the new circuit rider on the Jamestown charge, filled his regular appointment at Bethlehem the 2nd Sunday.

Who-What-?

In every field of human endeavor the man or the product that excels must forever live in the white light of publicity where envy and emulation are constantly at work.

Whether in art, literature, music, science or industry, excellence brings the same rewards and punishment.

Widespread recognition is the reward, and the punishment fierce denial and detraction.

When a man's work becomes a standard for the whole world, it also becomes a target for envious competitors.

The leader is assailed because he is a leader, and the effort to equal him is the proof of his leadership.

Failing to equal him the follower seeks to depreciate and to destroy—but only confirms once more the superiority of that which he wishes to supplant.

There is nothing new in this. It is as old as the world, as old as human passions—envy, fear, greed, ambition and covetousness.

And it avails nothing. The man or the product that has in them the real qualities of leadership remains the leader.

That which is good or great makes itself known no matter how loud the clamor of denial. That which deserves to live—lives.

Broken Hearts Mended.

Broken hearts are now being mended. Not the hearts shattered by unfortunate romances, but the valvular organs pierced by knives. Time mends the first kind, but only the skilful surgeon, Zeldler, can be depended on to operate successfully on the knife-torn heart.

Dr. Zeldler has a little hospital at Obuchow in Russia. Thirty-one persons brought to the hospital with hearts pierced and slashed by knife wounds have successfully had their organs repaired and have recovered entirely, to all appearances, from their remarkable experiences.

One patient has lived seven years and shows no signs of having been affected by the heart wound and subsequent sewing up. The patients were all put under the influence of ether very soon after the injury, part of the chest wall was removed, the heart lifted from its bed, and the stitches quickly introduced between pulsations. The bony chest wall over the heart was not put back into place, that organ being left protected only by skin and muscle. This was done to give the heart room to expand and to prevent adhesions from embarrassing the heart's action.

Curious Big Game Hunting.

The gramophone is sometimes put to strange uses. The leader of an African hunting expedition, who set out on a motor trip from the Cape to Cairo, recently used it as a decoy for tigers and hippopotami. In tiger hunting it is usual to tether a lamb to a tree; its bleatings attract the tiger within reach of the hunters. Before leaving England the explorer had some records made by bleating lambs, and, says a recent writer, he tried them on the unsuspecting tigers of the African jungle with considerable success.

The record makers gained one of their greatest triumphs when they succeeded in getting good nightingale and blackbirds records. The chief difficulty was the objection that birds had to the sounds of the recording machines. The clever men got round that by setting up a dummy recording machine, in the horn of which they put some of

Great Business Losses Due to Neglect

W. WITHERS MILLER

President of the Polk-Miller Drug Company, Richmond, Va., is authority for the following extraordinary statement:

"I estimate that the business men of this country could increase their efficiency fully ten per cent by taking an occasional laxative and not neglecting the bowels as most of them do."

He also said that if the Department of Commerce in Washington would present each business man in the country with a box of Rexall Orderlies, it would be of great benefit to the national welfare. Rexall Orderlies are prompt in action, pleasant to take and never gripe, can be used by men, women or children, and are just the thing for toning up sluggish livers.

Nine Negroes Killed.

A race war in Early county, Ga., and across the Chattahoochee river, in Alabama, has recently resulted in the killing of nine negroes, the wounding of several whites and the burning of four negro lodge buildings.

The trouble grew out of the murder of J. Villipigue, a white plantation overseer, by negroes—grandson Goolsby and his sons, Mike and Ulysses. The killing of the white man is said to have been caused by a beating which he gave to one of the young Goolsbys.

Immediately mobs and posses started in pursuit of the slayers and are said to have killed nine negroes in the conflict which followed. In retaliation the blacks wounded a number of white men.

Reports that a negro secret organization had delegated Goolsbys and his sons to kill Villipigue caused the burning of four negro lodges. The elder Goolsby was known as one of the leading spirits in negro Ma-on and negro Odd Fellow's lodge in that section and also as a member of several negro organizations.

Typhus and Influenza.

In Mexico there are 250,000 cases of typhus fever, while in the United States more than a million people are now suffering from influenza. The death rate from typhus is abnormally high, while that from influenza is rapidly approaching the figures set by "the grip" which swept the country 20 years ago. Both results from insanitary conditions, both being germ diseases.

In Mexico climatic conditions, utter failure to give attention to sanitary matters, and the ravages of war largely account for the prevalence of typhus fever. In the United States the open winter, exposing decaying vegetables and animal matter, may be the principal contributing cause of influenza. Mexico is without physicians or other medical assistance, Carranza having banished the Red Cross. In the United States doctors are plentiful and are able to afford relief if summoned in time. But beyond all these the people themselves must give attention to cleanliness about homes and premises, and take such other

Bowels are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally. This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Carrie McDonald, 1033 Trigg Ave., Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. Sallie E. Griffith, Veechdale, Ky., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply writing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, Syrup Pepsin Co., Monticello, N. Y., and enclosing address on a postal card with no money address.

measures as will suppress disease germs, if the public health is to be conserved.

The one great animating principle of medicine and of sanitation today is the prevention of disease, not the cure of it. For nearly a generation in this country public schools and newspapers have been educating the people along health lines, and if what they have been told is put into effect by them influenza and kindred diseases can be stamped out on their first appearance. Upon the people rests the primal responsibility of being well and staying well.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Most Effectual.

Paper Made of Grass.

As a means of conserving the forests in this country, the Department of Agriculture is experimenting with wire grass as a source of supply for pulp for making paper instead of wood pulp. Wire grass, as it is commonly known in the West, grows on the Pacific slope and in Western Mexico. It forms a dense mat of roots and yields in fertile soils sometimes as high as three tons of grass. It is fibrous and tough and can be reduced by the soda process. The use of the "hog," by which wood is reduced to pulp, is entirely done away with.

The paper manufactured from the stock has proven as satisfactory, in physical tests, as a first grade, machine-finished printing paper. It has, moreover, a very satisfactory appearance and feeling. For bleaching however, the experiments showed that more bleaching powder was required than with poplar stock.

It has been estimated that the growth of wood in the United States is being removed at the rate of 36 cubic feet per acre each year, while the natural increase is at the rate of 12 cubic

Colds Need Attention

Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, irritation, swelling or soreness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble. Caught in time Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey loosens the phlegm and destroys the germs which have settled in the throat or nose. It is soothing and healing. Pine is antiseptic; honey is soothing—both together possess excellent medicinal qualities for fighting cold germs. Insist on Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. 25c at Paul Drug Co. Adv.

been failing for the past few years, his mind was bright and active to the last. He was held in high esteem by a wide circle of friends who are saddened that a good man has passed away.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 o'clock, at the Methodist church in Forest City. Rev. Jesse Murrell, the pastor, spoke words of condolence to the hearts bowed with sorrow. A quartet sang the songs he loved and the body was laid to rest beside those of the children gone before. The floral offerings sent by relatives and friends completely hid the casket from view.—Havana, Ill., paper.

A proposal to pay indemnity for Americans lost in the Lusitania disaster was made to Secretary Lansing by Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, who also gave assurance that noncombatant ships of any character would not be attacked without warning and that safety would be accorded with passengers and crew. No official indication was given as to the acceptability of the proposal, but some officials took the view that it would end the controversy.

Bad Habits.

Those who breakfast at eight o'clock or later, lunch at twelve and have dinner at six are almost certain to be troubled with indigestion. They do not allow time for one meal to digest before taking another. Not less than five hours should elapse between meals. If you are troubled with indigestion correct your habits and take Chamberlain's Tablets, and you may reasonably hope for a quick recovery. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. For sale by Paull Drug Co. Adv.

Farmers Should Grow Alfalfa.

There will be a large extension in the acreage of alfalfa in the Eastern States in the next few years. In many places in this section there is much the same feeling toward alfalfa that the farmers of the West had toward the westward extension of clover. Many have the idea that it can't be grown, and that ends the matter, in their minds.

One of the principal troubles with eastern soils is they are deficient in humus and nitrogen. Nitrogen for most crops and on most land can be obtained by the growth of legumes much cheaper than it can be purchased. In the growing of legumes, select the one that will produce the best returns in feed, under most conditions. Alfalfa is the best legume to grow where it will do well. It will produce more feed that has a higher feeding value, on land that is adapted to its growth, than any other legume.

There is no reason why alfalfa should not be the principal leguminous crop in the East, on most soils, just as it is in the West. And the returns of the farmers in the eastern section of the United States would be much greater if a larger acreage of this crop was grown.

Moving Picture Industry.

Only a few people can even surmise the enormous expenditure of the moving picture business.

Fifty million people visit the moving picture shows of the earth every twenty-four hours.

Practically the entire motion picture output of the world now originates in America. It is the fifth largest industry of the United States. More than 70 per cent. of the films are produced in Southern California.

One thousand miles of negatives are annually developed in the Los Angeles studio, from which 40,000 miles of positive are made.

The people of the United States paid $297,000,000 during the past year to see these pictures.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars are lavished on a single feature production.

The twenty producing companies spend over a million dollars a month in Los Angeles.

They employ 12,000 people regularly.

It looks like we might have an ice tide at present.

The coldest wave of the season is on at this time.

We had no mail several days of last week on the account of high water.

We are sorry to say that there are several bad cases of pneumonia fever in this section.

Jesse Dudley, who has been residing in the State of Illinois for the past year, is here on a visit with his father and mother.

Wesley Parson, of Hart county, was here for a few days of last week closing out his real estate.

R. O. Keltner bought, last week, a house and lot in our city. Consideration $215. Uncle Bob knows a good thing when he sees it.

Arvin Mill, of Liletown, spent a few days here last week with his relatives and friends.

Judge J. W. Kinnaird, of Edmonton, in company with J. H. Kinnaird, of Red Lick, called in to see us on their return from Columbia the first of the week. Judge Kinnaird reports everything moving along nicely in his thriving town. While our old friend J. H., looks as young as he did thirty years ago, and gets around like a boy in his teens.

Nat Walker, of Columbia, was in our midst several days of last week assisting our Sheriff in getting ready for the present term of court, which began Monday.

Strong Hill Esq., spent several days of last week in Green county repairing saw mills, etc.

Our free school closed last Friday. We must say that this has been one of the best schools that we have ever had taught here. Our children, one and all, have advanced rapidly with all their studies. We certainly regret that we could not induce Mr. Aaron to continue the term on a few months longer. Owing to previous engagements, he would not accept.

Thos. Dowell informed us that a Democratic son was born to the wife of Mr. Shuffit, of Green county, last Thursday. Mr. Shuffit is a son-in-law of Mr. Dowell and a very strong Republican, while his wife is just as strong Democrat and the son of course takes after his mother in this respect.

Dolphus Rodgers was considered dangerously sick a day or so of last week. By the close medical attention of Dr. Simmons, he was relieved in a short time.

WAR SITUATION.

In the Champagne district of France the French are now attacking along approximately the same front as that chosen by the Germans for their recent offensive.

Berlin records a French drive against German positions about two-thirds of a mile wide North of LeMesnil. The attack broke down under the German fire, it is declared, and continuation of the bombardment prevented a repetition of the attack.

In Lille, Northern France, a city held by the Germans since early in the war, an ammunition depot in one of the fortifications blew up. Seventy residents were killed and about fifty injured. The German official announcement states. The people of Lille, says the statement, attribute the explosion to an act of the British.

The British forces under Gen. Townshend have made several sorties from Kut-el-Amara, on the Tigris, each time being repulsed with losses, according to the current statement by the Turkish War office. The official communication makes the definite assertion that this force is surrounded.

It was announced in London that the British relief force coming up the Tigris was at a standstill more than twenty miles down the river. The Turkish unofficial advices have claimed the defeat of this force with heavy losses. The British declare they have the better of the situation and that the halt of Gen. Aylmer's relief column is because of weather conditions and the necessity of removing their wounded by river.

A long-range naval battle in the Black Sea between the Turkish warship Sultan Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goeben, and the Russian battleship Empress Maria is reported by Constantinople. The latter was hit by the Turkish vessel's fire but the Sultan Selim was undamaged, it is declared.

Constantinople claims that considerable losses were suffered by the Entente forces in their evacuation of the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula. Parties of the retreating troops who refused to surrender and fled toward the landing places were wiped out, the Turkish statement asserts.

The German offensive in the Champagne on Sunday was preceded by a twenty-four-hour bombardment, one of the heaviest the Germans have yet developed against the French lines, a Paris dispatch states. A prompt counter attack gave the Germans no time to organize the positions they carried and negatived their effort, the dispatch adds.

Ourselves.

(By R. L. Campbell.)

"Oh would some power the gift give us
To see ourselves as others see us."

Robert Burns must have been listening to gossip when he penned the above lines, and if his wish should be granted I am sure that this great country of ours would soon undergo one of the most radical changes of all history. For few, if any of us are exempt from criticism. We deserve it and that is why there is such a productive field for gossip. The little world in which exist is continually expressing itself for or against us. And should we say that we do not cater to its opinions it would be false, for we never become so independent but what we are interested to some extent in what others think of us or have to say about us. Although their opinions may not always flatter or please our vanity, still we are curious to know that opinion. And although the opinions of us as expressed by others may wound our pride, they still may contain an abundance of truth. For "there is none good but one, that is God," and others are quicker to detect flaws in ones character than the person himself. It is strange, but still it is true, that our faults have a way of pushing themselves to the surface, while our virtues, our really good traits of character remain unrevealed and unnoticed. Why this should be true is a mystery to me. Is it possible that we are so selfish that in our mad race for success we will attempt to win by holding a competitor back? Or is it that we try to reveal our virtues by magnifying the vices of others? I sometimes think that this theory is true, but still why should it be? For Christ hath said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Thus do you not think that our virtues would soon reach the surface and become a shining light whereby others might be guided if we would cease to try to place to our own credit the honor that is justly due to our competitor? It is true we all prefer a sweet dose to a bitter one, but still all medicines are not sweet, and it is usually the bitterest dose that does the most good.

Let us stop just a moment and consider the great wide world, what a great big affair it is. And yet what a small portion thereof we each can call our own. Our home, our relatives and a handful of friends, and beyond this we are unknown. A days ride and we are in a land of strangers. We live, we die. A few tears and regrets from our relatives and friends and we are forgotten. The flower has bloomed and faded. But such is the life we are living. When we step out another takes our place and thus the world moves on.

But back to our subject. Is it possible for us to see ourselves and get the same image that is seen by others? Yes, I verily believe that it is if we would but take the time to reflect. This calls to mind a story I once read about two gossips. They were real neighborhood tattlers, and thus they talked about each other. Finally they met one day for a personal combat, and after a heated discussion they decided to keep a diary of all the things they might hear said about the other during the following week and then to exchange diaries. At the close of the week they compared notes, and it is needless to say that the remarks made about them were anything but pleasant. But it worked to their good. They had had a glance at themselves as others saw them. They ceased to gossip. For faults in themselves that they had never dreamed of were brought to light, and in attempting to guard against these newly discovered faults others were revealed. They soon found that if they would shield themselves they would have no time to gossip on the faults of others.

Yes I am very sure that we could see ourselves as others see us if we but desired to do so. But it may be best that we do not try for the image we thus would confront might frighten us. But still a small glance might work to our good, as it did to the good of the gossips. And I believe that we could get a clearer vision of ourselves if we would induce our enemies to make the notes. Oh yes we all have enemies. We may not call them that, but still in our hearts they are classed as such. That ever present little bird has conveyed to us a remark "some acquaintance has made about us. It cut to the quick. It becomes an eating sore. But still the speaker treats us nicely when we meet him and we treat him likewise. But do we treasure his friendship? I am afraid that we do not always do so. He has seen us as we have not always seen ourselves. That is all. So let us stop and think just a moment. Haven't we said something just about as severe about our friend as the remark he has directed against us? Yes and perhaps that same little bird has conveyed it to his ears. For so is the way of the world.

There is never a bunch of grapes so sweet but one or more of the individual grapes are sour. So let us try and get a little peep at ourselves and if the grape should prove to be sour let us remember that the best cloak with which we can shield our vices is to say nothing about our fellow man that we would be unwilling to have him repeat about us. Then when we are once started on this highway of peace, let us gather up the sun beams that fall around us, and by kind words and gentle deeds, pass them on to others, dispelling, perhaps, many a shadow and living not in vain. Then when at last the winter of life sets in we will have reached the goal, and the record we will leave engraven on the hearts of men will bear witness that we have seen ourselves as others saw us, and this record may prove to be a guiding star to future generations. Who could ask a greater reward?

Jake Moore, Salesman, Describes Benefit He Derived From Tanlac.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 18.—A tribute to the value of Tanlac, the peerless preparation, was paid recently by Jake Moore, a salesman for the American Tobacco Company, who lives at 627 Sixth street, Louisville.

"I had been in poor health for two years," Mr. Moore said. "For six months I had been in a really serious condition. I was intensely nervous, suffered from violent headaches, and was generally run down. There was a continual dullness in my forehead. My body seemed benumbed. My friends and business acquaintances commented on the fact that I had no grip when I shook hands with them."

"My digestion was poor, and I couldn't sleep at night. If I ate anything it disagreed with me. My stomach would fill with gas. I took cold easily and didn't think clearly."

"Then, a week ago, I began taking Tanlac. Now everything has changed. I have recovered my health, energy, and ambition. I eat and sleep well, and get up mornings feeling like a real day's work. Tanlac has made all the difference in the world to me."

For listless, languid men and women Tanlac has established itself as an invaluable tonic. Hundreds in Louisville have given testimony to its efficacy. This premier remedy is now being sold in Columbia at Page & Taylor's drug store. Adv.
